

D&C Engineers

D&C Engineers' control panel design and installation

We build control panels at our works in the Midlands, ready to install on your site

All our electricians are City & Guild-certified with 17th edition certifications. They are also fully qualified to undertake testing of all appliances and electrical installations. D&C Engineers is a NICEIC-registered company.

It goes without saying that health & safety is our primary consideration. Our teams are continually trained in all aspects of health & safety and CDM regulations.

After completing electrical installations we provide you with the necessary test certificates and CAD-generated circuit diagrams.

We look forward to hearing from you.
